Demonstrations • Tours • Buggy Rides • Crafts
Period Games • Heritage Farm Equipment
Food • Farmer's Market • Music and Dance

Johnny Appleseed; recreated by actor Hank Fincken and funded by a grant from the Ohio Humanities Council, revisits Dublin to tell visitors of his life and the story of the apple trees for which he is famous.

SPONSORED BY DUBLIN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Dublin Cornet Band; reprising its role as village entertainers and musical ambassadors to other villages and cities, the Dublin Cornet Band first founded in 1879.

Top: Jim Thompson, local expert on the life and times of the martyred Wyandot Chief Leatherlips will talk about and show artifacts from the life and time of Leatherlips.

Bottom: Ohio Wildlife Center; live animals representing those in the Dublin area 200 years ago including opossum, woodchuck or hawks or owls. Education exhibit showing wildlife at settlement 200 years ago, then a century ago and where we are today.

Music

Enjoy musical entertainment throughout the day beginning with bagpipers calling the crowd to the City's time capsule dedication on the Coffman Park grounds. The Dublin Cornet Band, revived from its historic roots in 1879, plays in the performance tent. Dance groups will display vintage styles and square dance steps early Dubliners would have enjoyed. Our visitors will have a chance to join and learn their steps.

Stories

Hear Johnny Applesseed tell his story about coming through the Dublin village area many years ago. Recreated by actor Hank Fincken, this historic figure comes alive for us at the park. Jim Thompson, local historian and expert on the life and death of Chief Leatherlips talks about the Wyandot Indian Chief memorialized in Scioto Park. Thompson will also talk about Bill Moose, the last of the Wyandots in Ohio.

Tours and Demonstrations

Tour the historic Coffman House and barn. Take a leisurely horse and buggy ride through the park. Get a feel for the one-room school experience and write with chalk on a piece of slate. Watch a blacksmith demonstrate nail-making, use a cross-cut saw, and see how rope was made.

An artisan will show you how cane seats for chairs were woven. Join the Washington Township firefighters in a bucket brigade to feel the way villagers fought fires before the days of fire engines. And there's more!

Games and Activities

Participate in games and activities that might have been part of a village gathering in the "old days". You can join us for even more fun and learning. Hoop roll, leap frog, corn cob toss, rag doll making, grave marker rubbing, egg race, ring toss, tug of war are a few of these.
